[1] He is not mentioned in Glover's pedigree. His existence may be a mistake of Dugdale's, and it is possible that Richard (VI) went to the East Riding and that Arthur (VII) was the son of Richard (V), and remained at Rathorp. A son Arthur is mentioned in the latter's will, as above.

I. CHRISTOPHER LANGLEY[2] [?son of Richard Langley of Owsthorpe (VI) and Agnes, dau. of Richard Hansby], of . . . , near Durham, in the County Palatine of Durham, of Millington, near Pocklington, East Riding Yorks, æt. nineteen, 1584; (?) died 11 Aug. 1592 (Pocklington Reg.). Inq. P.M.

[1] He left half his property to his wife and half to his brother John, of whom no more information has been obtained.

[2] It seems not quite certain that Christopher Langley was son of Richard Langley, of Rathorp (VI) in the above pedigree. It is so stated in Glover (Foster's Ed. 117). The following entries occur in the Pocklington registers:—1563, 24 Jan., Margaret, da. of Richard Langley, bp.—1564, 6 Aug., Christopher, son of Richard Langley, bp.—1586, 1 Dec., Richard Langley, of Greenthorpe and Owsthorpe, hanged at York, Dec. 1, for harbouring Popish priests—1592, 11 Aug., Christopher Langley died. Dugdale only mentions Christopher, of near Durham, being father of Francis (II), and does not mention a son Richard. However, the pedigree would work out correctly if the suggestion in the note on p. 13 happens to be right. The Langley family were at Pocklington till 1722.

1. Christopher Langley, of South Cowton, in com. Ebor., had six children as appears by his father's will.
